1. Website with a good UI/UX

- I chose Instagram as having good UI/UX because I think it has a nice, clean UI that doesn't require others' help on how to use the website. For the UI, I like the position of the options like Home, Reels, Messenger, Search, and Profile at the bottom, where you can use them easily. As for the UX, I also like how smooth it is for Stories or Reels navigation, and how easy it is to use just tap, swipe, etc.

2. Website with a good UI/UX

- I think Discord has a bad UI/UX because the first time I used it, I didn't really like it. I was confused about how to use it. I mean, I didn't understand its functions and features at all. There were so many elements on the screen at once servers, channels, roles, voice chats, direct messages that I didn't know where to start or what each one was for. Maybe it's because I don't use this type of website as often as I use Instagram, so I'm not used to navigating a platform with so many features packed into one interface. Compared to Instagram, which felt intuitive right away, Discord felt like it required a learning curve just to understand the basics.
